The Myriad™

Why is running a successful business so challenging? Why is running a business not for everyone? What is needed to succeed in business?

The answers to these questions are simple or not, depending on your view point. To succeed in business, you and your team just have to master the core skills, disciplines, and practices in what we call the Myriad. Simple, right? Or, if you take the complex perspective, you have to master all the damned core skills, disciplines and practices shown below. It all depends on your point of view.

Whatever your perspective, the myriad is a reality. And your business must integrate each of these and more (sorry) to truly succeed. So get to work! If you find yourself at a loss in any of these, call us. Integrating these to build a sustainable, profitable business is what we do.

Note: "The Bus" is your team and their roles within your organization.
